POHICK STREAM VALLEY TRAIL

is part of the countywide trail plan. It is also a component of the Cross County Trail which will eventually stretch across the county from south to north. It will link Pohick Stream Valley to the Occoquan River in the south, through the Laurel Hill Greenway, and with Accotink Stream Valley and Difficult Run Stream Valley to the Potomac River at Great Falls National Park.

Access points for this section of trail are through neighborhoods along the trail as shown on the map – several of the access trails are very steep. The trail surface varies – parts are asphalt, parts are stonedust, and a few small sections are natural surface. Stream crossings are mostly fairweather crossings, but there are also two wooden bridges on one section of the main trail. The distance from the Fairfax County Parkway to Wadebrook Terrace is approximately 3.2 miles.

An asphalt trail runs along the east and north sides of Pohick Road. There are currently no connections to this trail from the CCT, though a future connection is planned.

There is limited parking at the southern end of the trail at the cul-de-sac of Wadebrook Terrace (the end of Rolling Road). There is also limited parking along Hooes Road, paralleling the Fairfax County Parkway on the northern end of this segment.

There are no service facilities on this stretch of trail.
