Emergency Services staff, the main changes include billing a per diem rate (one full day) instead of blocks of time, having the capacity to bill for providing pre-screening services, and have the flexibility to operate “23-hour-beds” which are beds that will have supervision and allow a patient to stay for that period of time (not overnight) and get re-stabilized, these beds will open in the Merrifield Center but will launch at a later date; toured the Regional Crisis Stabilization Unit in Chantilly, Virginia, which has the capacity to operate a 16 bed unit with the possibility to add an additional 16 (23) hour beds/chairs (due to unfished space in the building), currently awaiting final sign off from the Fire Marshall’s Office and state license to license the program which will allow them to open; noted his participation in the Opioid Abatement Authority, the state is hoping to enter a joint settlement agreement with drug distributors and all localities which would allow disbursements in the hundred of millions of dollars; licensed clinician volunteers are temporarily being deployed to the assessment unit to help with the assessment capacity, along with processing an emergency procurement to secure a telehealth vendor to help with license assessments; the three teams that have been identified to temporarily transition staff from are the partial hospitalization program, wellness and health prevention program, and the homeless outreach program, there still continues to be over 100 patients waiting to receive outpatient case management services; stay surveys with HSD Metrics showed the three main areas of concern are pay, workload and administrative requirements, and communication/lack of communication with leadership, the following steps have been taken to address those concerns: creation of SharePoint site where staff can provide recommendation and comments, Listening and Town Hall Meetings, weekly updates from the Executive Team, identification of positions that need salary compression and retainment bonuses; new guidance for vaccination and testing policies have been provided by CMS and OSHA, Department of Human Resources and County Attorney’s office will provide direction on how the CSB should proceed.
