Adapted Aquatics Assistant: Cub Run RECenter

Volunteers will get into the pool to assist individuals with disabilities during adapted swimming and water exercise classes. Volunteers provide physical support, personalized instruction and encouragement to adapted aquatics class participants. Volunteers will be under the direct supervision of a trained class instructor, who will lead the group through learn-to-swim exercises and water safety activities. Training for new volunteers is provided on the third Thursday of each month in the evening (locations vary, details provided upon registration). Volunteers do not have to be expert swimmers, but must be comfortable in the water. Volunteers can anticipate working with children, teens and adults with intellectual, developmental, physical and other disabilities. Volunteers must be able to commit to a class session of 6 to 10 weeks. This is a fun and rewarding volunteer experience!

Duties: Work closely (this will require getting wet!) with one or two students during class under the guidance of an Adapted Aquatics Instructor. Help to set goals for the participants who are working on swimming skills or water adjustment skills. Assist instructor with administrative duties and light lifting.

Qualifications: Volunteers must be 16 years of age or older. Exceptions may be made for 14-15 year olds based on special skills or a dedication to working with the disabled community. I-66 Commuter Summer Survival Tips

Are you one of thousands of commuters slowly inching your way along I-66 to work every day? The Transform 66 Outside the Beltway project will bring huge improvements to the highway, but first we have to get through the construction phase. The good news is that this summer is a good time to check out options that can reduce your commuting stress and save you money, too!

Consider These Your I-66 Commuter Summer Survival Tips:

Take Connector Bus Route 699 to D.C. -

Since it was launched last December, the popular Connector Bus Route 699 from the Fairfax County Government Center to D.C. has been averaging about 240 daily riders. These commuters enjoy a 30-minute air conditioned, stress-free drive to D.C. Sound good? Here are more reasons to consider this option:

- Free parking is available at the Government Center lot.
- Morning service from the Government Center begins at 5:40 a.m. and operates every 20 minutes with last departure at 8:25 a.m.
- Afternoon service from D.C. begins at 3:25 p.m. and operates every 22 minutes, from Virginia Ave. and 21st St., NW. Last departure from D.C. is at 6:43 p.m. from 19th St. and F St., NW.
- Cost is only $4.25 each way and you can use cash or your SmarTrip card. (Cost for older adults and people with disabilities is $2.10)
- Need to leave D.C. midday? Take Metro Orange Line to Vienna and connect to Connector Route 621, which will bring you to the Government Center.
- Bonus – Our buses have bike racks so you can continue your travels in D.C. on two wheels.

Get Free Parking and $1 Bus Fare -

Another great option is to park your car for free at one of several park and ride locations, then ride a select Fairfax Connector bus route to the Vienna Metro Station for only $1.

Get More Info on Using Fairfax Connector

Try the Virginia Rail Express (VRE) -

Commuters driving on I-66 from west of Vienna should consider using the VRE Manassas Line (via Burke Centre) to Crystal City, L'Enfant Plaza, or Union Station. There is plenty of free parking at the Burke Centre station garage .

Learn About Riding VRE

Organize a Carpool -

The region's Commuter Connections' Pool Rewards program provides up to $130 for new carpoolers through a trip-tracking process. Commuters who start a three-person carpool on I-66 through 2020 can receive an additional $100 cash reward. These carpools are also eligible for Commuter Connections' Guaranteed Ride Home program.

Pet Safety Alert

Animal Protection Police Officers and the Fairfax County Wildlife Management Specialist are monitoring coyote activity after a small dog was attacked and killed in the forested area of the Parklawn community. Dogs are vulnerable to coyote confrontations, especially when unattended. Conflicts between dogs and coyotes can happen year-round but are more likely during coyote mating season (January-March) and when coyotes are caring for their young (March-August). Unprovoked conflicts between humans and coyotes are extremely rare. Coyotes are an established part of the local wildlife community in Fairfax County and the mere presence of coyotes should not alarm you.

To help prevent conflicts and the likelihood of a confrontation with a coyote:

- Never feed a coyote
- Securely cover your trash bins and compost piles

- Do not feed pets outside or store pet food outside
- Do not leave your pet unattended, even in a fenced yard
- Keep cats indoors
- Pick up ripe, fallen fruit and do not let it accumulate on the ground
- Keep dogs on short leashes (less than 6 feet) while walking outside
- Install motion sensor lights or a motion activated sprinkler around your home

The Fairfax County Police Department's Animal Services Division is working to monitor coyote activity in the area using area searches and game cameras. Personnel are coordinating these efforts with the Virginia Department of Game and Inland Fisheries to determine if additional actions need to be taken. Reports of aggressive, sick or injured animals should be made to the Fairfax County Animal Protection Police through the Police non-emergency number at 703-691-2131.

2018 Atlantic Hurricane Season Outlook

Forecasters at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) Climate Prediction Center say the Atlantic could see another above-normal hurricane season this year, which extends from June 1 to November 30.

NOAA's Climate Prediction Center is forecasting a 75 percent chance that the 2018 Atlantic hurricane season will be near- or above-normal. Forecasters predict a 35 percent chance of an above-normal season, a 40 percent chance of a near-normal season, and a 25 percent chance of a below-normal season for the upcoming hurricane season.

Hurricane Preparedness:

While hurricanes typically don't strike Fairfax County directly, we often feel the effects of these storms with high winds and heavy rainfall, which can lead to localized flooding. Here are a few preparedness steps you can take today.

- Make a family emergency communication plan.
- Be sure to include your pets in your emergency preparedness planning.
- Identify an out of town emergency contact to coordinate information with family and friends.
- Keep an emergency kit where you spend time — home, car and work.
- Practice your preparedness plans with a drill or exercise.
- Sign up for local weather alerts and warnings from Fairfax Alerts.
- Check your insurance coverage and know if you have flood and wind protection.

Don't Be a Fawn Kidnapper! Leave White-Tailed Deer Alone

Leave baby Bambi alone!

That's the advice of our county's wildlife biologist as we move into the height of white-tailed deer fawn births from April through July.

You may encounter white-tailed deer fawns motionless and without their mother, then mistakenly assume they are orphaned or abandoned. In almost all cases, fawns are only temporarily left by their mothers for protection and need no human intervention.

"If you see a fawn that appears abandoned, leave it alone," says Katherine Edwards, the county's wildlife biologist. "People don't often see that mother deer return at dawn and dusk to move and/or nurse their young. Keep children and pets away and give the fawn space to allow the doe to return to its baby."

If you have already handled or “rescued” a fawn, and less than 24 hours have passed, you should return it immediately to the exact place where you found it. Its mother will be looking for it. Don’t be a fawn “kidnapper”!

You should only seek help for a fawn if it is showing obvious signs of injury or distress, such as wandering and crying incessantly, eyes swollen, has visible wounds or broken bones, or if there is a dead lactating doe nearby. If an animal is displaying these signs, contact a licensed wildlife rehabilitator, veterinarian or the Animal Protection Police for further assistance and instruction.

If you have questions about whether an animal is in need of help or to locate a licensed wildlife rehabilitator, contact the Virginia Wildlife Conflict Helpline toll-free at 1-855-571-9003, Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Fairfax County Animal Protection Police can be reached through the police non-emergency line at 703-691-2131.

Meet Jack!

Age: 5y 3m

Gender: Male

Color: Black / Tan

Spayed/Neutered: Yes

Size: Medium

FLOOF ALERT! Meet Jack! He's a handsome, fluffy, debonair guy who has completely won over the volunteers at the Fairfax County Animal Shelter.

They have had conversations about how easy going and friendly he is, and they just love to admire his big smile and happy demeanor. They also love how easy he's been to walk and hang out with since he came to the shelter. Outside of the shelter he seems to need time to get to know people so a patient person would be perfect! His previous owner only had him for a short time, so the shelter does not really know much about him. They are not sure how he will do with other dogs, and he may be a little protective of his treats and toys. But with a big smile, wiggly butt, and floofy tail like his, what more could you want in a BFF? For more information about Jack, please contact the Animal Shelter at 703-830-1100; TTY 711 or by email at animalshelter@fairfaxcounty.gov.
