Chairman Bulova Says Intolerance in Fairfax County Unacceptable

May 2, 2013 – “The Boston Marathon bombings and recent reports in the media of an alleged attack on a Muslim American in Fairfax County have raised the issue of anti-Islamic sentiment and intolerance in the community.

Fairfax County is a community where people of many different cultures, religions, and backgrounds live, work and play together safely and in harmony. Fairfax County’s diversity is one of our greatest assets. Attacks against our Muslim neighbors and intolerance toward any person for any reason are not acceptable in Fairfax County.”
