

Neighborhood Networks

Connecting Families with Neighborhood Resources and Support

Neighborhood Networks:

- Supports families as they build on their strengths as parents and leaders.
- Connects families with people and resources from Fairfax County's Department of Family Services, the schools and the surrounding community.

Participation in the Program

Neighborhood Networks is a voluntary program. Families are nominated to the program by participating schools and by the county's Department of Family Services.

Neighborhood Networks can support you and your family in many ways:

- Connect you with resources – educational, medical, financial, housing and transportation.
- Help your family develop ways to deal with challenges.
- Provide one contact point for various groups who may be working with your family.
- Help you become more involved with your neighborhood and discover ways to help others.
- Listen to you and help you achieve what you wish for your family.
