Fairfax County Planning Commission Office
Government Center Building
12000 Government Center Parkway, Suite 330
Fairfax, Virginia 22035-5505

Sub-unit D-1 (part of Reston Parkway Transit Station Area)

Sub-unit D-1 is mostly developed with a diversity of uses including housing, retail, institutional facilities such as a county government center, police station, medical-oriented facilities, regional library and social services. It is planned and approved for a mix of uses including office, retail, residential, institutional and community-serving uses at intensities between .50 and .70 FAR. Within this sub-unit is the Reston Hospital and associated medical office building, the North County Government Complex, and a regional library, which are all excluded from the total 8.4 million square feet planned in the Reston Town Center.

Sub-unit D-2 (part of Reston Parkway Transit Station Area)

Sub-unit D-2 is the Town Center Urban Core of the Reston Town Center and consists of approximately 85 acres. In the Town Center Urban Core, a commercial intensity of up to .95 FAR may be appropriate and is consistent with the Town Center rezonings of March 1987 and subsequently approved Proffered Condition Amendments. Individual blocks or parcels may exceed this intensity, so long as the overall intensity of .95 FAR is not exceeded. In addition, it may be appropriate to allow up to 500,000 square feet of approved non-residential intensity from outside the Town Center Urban Core but from within the larger Reston Town Center area to be transferred to the Urban Core if it can be demonstrated that such square footage is available within the Reston Town Center as a whole and appropriate amendments to the approved 1987 rezonings can be achieved.

Sub-unit D-3 (part of Reston Parkway Transit Station Area)

This sub-unit is planned for office use at the intensities shown on the approved development plan for the parcels (between .80 - .90 FAR) or residential use at up to 30 dwelling units per acre. In addition, the active recreation needs of the residents should be met either through provision of appropriate facilities on-site or a written agreement with another nearby residential development allowing use of their facilities.

For development in this sub-unit, including all baseline recommendations and options, pedestrian walkways should be provided to facilitate circulation throughout the land unit and should connect to walkways in adjacent land units and existing sidewalks or trails along major streets in or around the land unit. All proposed developments should be in conformance with the Urban Design Guidelines, located after the land unit recommendations.

Transit-oriented Residential Mixed-Use Option – At such time as a funding agreement for Bus Rapid Transit (BRT), as described in the Land Use section in the Suburban Center Areawide Recommendations, is reached, mixed-use development up to a 1.0 FAR may be considered within Sub-unit D-3 provided that the mix of uses includes a residential component and a non-residential component that includes office, hotel, and support retail. The residential component should be at least 35% but no more than 50% of the total gross floor area of the development. Office use may not exceed 50% of the total gross floor area and support retail, to be located in office, hotel or residential buildings may not exceed 15% of the total gross floor area. Hotel uses are encouraged. In addition, the following condition should be met:

- Retail uses located on the ground floor should have direct public access and display windows oriented to pedestrian walkways, and where appropriate to vehicular drives and/or streets.

Proposed Comprehensive Plan Language

Sub-Unit D-1 (part of Reston Parkway Transit Station Area)

Sub-unit D-1 is mostly developed with a diversity of uses including housing, retail, institutional facilities such as a county government center, police station, medical-oriented facilities, regional library, and social services. It is planned and approved for a mix of uses including office, retail, residential, institutional and community-serving uses at intensities between .50 and .70 FAR. Within this sub-unit is the Reston Hospital Center and associated medical office buildings, the North County Government Complex, and a regional library, which are all excluded from the total 8.4 million square feet planned in the Reston Town Center.

As an option, the Reston Hospital Center and associated medical office buildings (Tax Map) may be developed with a mix of institutional, office and medical facilities at up to a 1.0 FAR, provided that the following conditions are met:

- A quality site layout should be provided, such as consolidated vehicular access, appropriate pedestrian connections linking the medical campus to existing sidewalks and to adjacent land bays, and appropriate screening and buffering against neighboring residential uses;
- Expansions of or additions to the existing hospital facility should be completed within or adjacent to the building footprint of the existing structure to the extent feasible;
- Building heights should be limited to 120 feet; and
- New above-grade parking structures should be designed and/or screened to minimize the appearance of mass and bulk.

Within the Reston Hospital Center campus, individual parcels may exceed 1.0 FAR provided the entire Reston Hospital Center campus does not exceed the 1.0 FAR intensity.

COMPREHENSIVE PLAN AMENDMENT
RESTON HOSPITAL CENTER

STATEMENT OF JUSTIFICATION

I. INTRODUCTION AND OVERVIEW

Reston Hospital Center and its associated medical campus (see attached Fairfax County Tax Map Numbers (collectively, the “Property”)) has been providing quality medical services to Fairfax County residents for more than 20 years and is an integral part of the fabric of the planned Reston community. An expansion of the hospital facility and surrounding medical buildings that was approved and completed within the last ten years enabled Reston Hospital to meet the short-term demands of its patients and physicians. Today, Reston Hospital is focused on ensuring it can continue to deliver high quality patient care over the next twenty years and beyond.

To that end, Reston Hospital Center has developed a revised master plan for its campus that would increase the available square footage for both hospital and non-hospital services, principally by constructing additional patient rooms within the existing hospital building’s footprint and a medical office building adjacent to the existing facility. To accomplish this effort, Reston Hospital proposes to amend the County’s Comprehensive Plan (the “Plan”) to allow for additional development options on the Property, subject to certain conditions. Adoption of this amendment would better achieve the Plan’s objectives for ensuring access to quality health care for County residents by allowing the facility to grow to meet the demands of a growing population.

II. COMPREHENSIVE PLAN AMENDMENT

The Property is located within Sub-Unit D-1 of the Reston-Herndon Suburban Center and is planned for hospital and associated medical office building uses. The current plan allows densities between .50 and .70 FAR, which are not sufficient to allow Reston Hospital Center to maintain its status as the premier local hospital serving the northern part of Fairfax County over the next 20 years. Reston Hospital seeks to improve upon the existing Plan by increasing the allowable development density for both hospital and non-hospital services to address the medical needs of the local population. The Hospital is seeking to allow a total floor-area ratio on the Property of 1.0 FAR, subject to certain conditions.

A. Increased Demand for Services

As noted, Reston Hospital recently completed expansions to its emergency department, constructed a new medical office building and increased by 60 the number of hospital beds in the facility. Even these expansions, however, did not fully address the future health care needs of the local population. For example, Reston Hospital Center currently is seeking a Certificate of Public Need (“COPN”) from the State Health Commissioner to increase the number of obstetric beds available at the facility. The recent increased demand for obstetrical services creates several operational challenges for Reston Hospital Center. The hospital is frequently unable to transfer mothers and their newborn babies from Labor and Delivery rooms to Postpartum rooms due to the lack of rooms resulting from a high patient census. Additionally, a steadily increasing number of in vitro fertilization procedures has led to additional pressures and lengthier patient admissions prior to labor and delivery. This is but one example of the type of future service demands that necessitate a new master plan for Reston Hospital Center.

B. Population Growth and Service Delivery

Reston Hospital's principal service delivery areas are in the western portion of Fairfax County and the eastern portion of Loudoun County. Demand for medical services, especially obstetrics, is projected to increase as the population of these areas surges. Between the years 2007 and 2017, it is estimated that Fairfax County will add more than 45,000 residents, primarily in the western portion of the County. During the same time frame, it is estimated that Loudoun County will add 167,000 new residents. Portions of both counties rely on Reston Hospital Center for medical services.

The estimated population growth is especially acute in the demographic of women between the ages of 15 and 44. In Loudoun County alone, this demographic is expected to increase by more than 10,000 (15%) in the five years between the years 2007 and 2012. Current and projected hospital and non-hospital medical service demands, resulting in part from shifting population growth, make it critical for Reston Hospital Center to proceed with this master planning effort now. Otherwise, the hospital and the community will need to play catch up later.

Because Reston Hospital Center has a finite land area at the Property (due, in part, to substantial utility easements burdening the Property) and little ability to purchase additional property for expansion, the proposed changes to the medical campus involve the addition of floors and height to several existing buildings, the construction of one new medical office building, and the construction of two parking garages, all of which can generally be accommodated within the existing property of the current hospital facilities. If fully implemented, these changes would permit the Property to develop with an overall FAR of 1.0, although a portion of the Property could be developed at a higher density, and the remainder at a lower density.

III. CONCLUSION

Reston Hospital Center strives to provide quality care for the citizens of Fairfax County. In order to continue providing the best care possible, especially in the areas of medical-surgical care and obstetrics, Reston Hospital respectfully requests a Comprehensive Plan Amendment to allow an increased FAR of 1.0 on the Hospital's three existing parcels.
