CSI: Franconia The Real Crime Scene Investigators

One of Franconia's Supplemental Crime Scene Officers displayed his crime-fighting skills and techniques for members of the community and media on November 10. Officer William Szuminski demonstrated how he collects fingerprints from items like soda cans and paper. He also made a mold of a shoeprint and explained how crime scene photos are taken.

Franconia Station has two Supplemental Crime Scene Officers who provide invaluable assistance to detectives and officers trying to solve crimes. They are able to quickly collect evidence that would have taken months to obtain without them. Franconia Station and the community it serves are proud to have these officers.
