3:30 p.m.  Public hearing on a proposed ordinance that establishes a method to assure continuity in Fairfax County government by temporarily approving outdoor dining and outdoor fitness and exercise activities subject to certain conditions, thereby temporarily suspending the need for individualized approvals of such activities. Virginia law authorizes the Board of Supervisors to adopt ordinances that will “assure continuity in its government” in the event of a disaster, and the COVID-19 emergency constitutes a disaster under the law. The proposed ordinance establishes a method for assuring continuity in government by temporarily approving expanded outdoor dining and outdoor fitness and exercise activities subject to certain conditions. Those conditions include capacity limits on outdoor dining; restrictions on tents, including requiring a fee-waived permit for any tent or tent area larger than 900 square feet; maintenance requirements; prohibitions on obstructing emergency access, building entrances and exits, ADA accessibility, and pedestrian passage; location requirements; prohibitions on physical alterations to property; requirements for adequate parking and restrictions on reduction or relocation of accessible parking spaces; and recognition of possible criminal and civil enforcement. The temporary approval applies only to establishments already approved to operate. The ordinance provides for the resumption of normal governmental authority, and it does not apply to any town unless a town’s government body votes to be subject to it. On May 28, 2020, the Board of Supervisors adopted such an ordinance on an emergency basis. Virginia law allows County governing bodies to adopt ordinances on an emergency basis, but such an ordinance cannot be enforced for more than 60 days unless readopted in conformity with the usual provisions of law. The ordinance proposed for passage on July 14, 2020, will repeal and replace the emergency ordinance.
