Request By: Supervisor Herrity

Question: Please provide an update to the number of PIO's in each department and the resulting labor costs.

Response:

Attached is a list of positions whose functions are primarily associated with internal/external communications, emergency communications, public information management, public affairs, internal/external relations, web content management, social media management, any communication policy development, and serving in any capacity as a point of contact for any media. Salaries are not listed for each individual, but the midpoint for the positions are identified in the table.

Multiple position classifications are represented; however, most are Information Officer and Communications Specialist positions. Based on a study conducted in January 2007, the two classifications were created and can be distinguished as follows:

1. Information Officers – These positions primarily perform traditional information officer work within the Office of Public Affairs (OPA), or for positions outside OPA, that primarily perform media relations and serve as the top media spokespersons for an agency.
2. Communication Specialists – Positions within this class primarily manage and implement communication programs to support the mission of the agency.
