New Business

1. 2025 Taxicab Biennial Determination Presentation.

Division Director Kastl presented the 2025 Taxicab Biennial Determination Presentation, which includes the number of certificates that are available to be issued on a biennial basis, based on public convenience and necessity assessments of the local regulated taxicab industry used to ensure taxicab services are sustainable and meet the needs of the community.

A discussion ensued regarding the County's authority in regulating taxicabs versus ridesharing services like Uber and Lyft. Division Director Kastl clarified that Fairfax County does not have regulatory authority over ridesharing services, though the Department of Motor Vehicles imposes certain limited regulations.

The Consumer Protection Commission (CPC) expressed interest in exploring further outreach and oversight opportunities for ridesharing services to address consumer complaints and improve accountability. Commissioners also discussed taxicab regulation, specifically the process for issuing certificates, conducting safety inspections, and permitting drivers. Staff explained that the operation of taxicabs for hire within the county are regulated to ensure safe, reliable, adequate and efficient taxicab service and to prescribe a schedule of reasonable rates for the services regulated herein. The Commission raised questions about consumer protection and safety concerns. Regulation and Licensing Manager Roberts agreed to prepare information to share with the CPC on the permit processes, inspection protocols, certificate allocations, and the consumer complaint process.

Director Makely joined the meeting at 8:32 p.m.

Director Makely provided updates on ride-share vehicles, clarifying that the current number of authorized certificates remains at 654 with 150 current certificates awarded.

A discussion ensued regarding the necessity of maintaining a cap on taxicab certificates. Director Makely explained that certificates assigned to individual vehicles, and for fleets exceeding 20 vehicles, four percent must be wheelchair accessible.

Commissioner Kirk made the motion to support the Director's recommendations. Commissioner Gulakowski seconded the motion. The motion passed unanimously, 12-0-0.

The discussion focused on whether to continue, consolidate, or sunset the committees. Chairperson Kratovil suggested incorporating committee work into full Commission meetings and eliminating the CPC-FSFC.

A discussion ensued on retaining the CPC-CEC as a standing committee, using committee working sessions to develop initiatives to present to the CPC, and supporting the continuance of the outreach and engagement component. Chairperson Kratovil concluded that no action was needed at this meeting and proposed revisiting the structure and use of committees in January 2026, to determine how best to allocate time and organize future agendas.

The Commission discussed towing regulations after Chairperson Kratovil asked about the County's authority to address predatory towing. Director Makely explained that DCCS's enforcement authority is specific to trespass towing and does not currently extend to broader towing practices.

A discussion ensued concerning towing notices issued by an apartment complex during paving work and incorporating complaint trends to help identify areas for improvement in enforcement and outreach. Division Director Kastl emphasized the need to gather input from the Trespass Towing Advisory Board (TTAB), the CPC, and staff before developing any recommendations.

Chairperson Kratovil highlighted the draft PQP document he had circulated and encouraged Commissioners to review it and share it within their networks. He noted that staff created a PQP landing page and asked for the Commission's help in providing resources and fraud-related content that will assist consumers.

Chairperson Kratovil also shared an example of Fairfax County Police Department's Captain Morris addressing predatory towing and discussed concerns about school traffic safety. He suggested that officers wear reflective gloves to improve visibility. He concluded by expressing pride in the Commission's accomplishments over the past year, thanking the Commissioners for their work.
