Fairfax County Government

Shaping the Future of Government

About Fairfax County

Formed before the Revolutionary War, Fairfax County was home to many of America's earliest statesmen, including George Washington of Mount Vernon, and George Mason of Gunston Hall. The county's rich history encompasses the entire existence of the nation. Today, Fairfax County is one of the premier centers of commerce and technology in the United States. Located just west of the nation's capital, Fairfax County is the most populous jurisdiction in the Commonwealth of Virginia, with 13.7% of Virginia's population. It is a great place to live, work, play and do business.

Governed by a 10-member Board of Supervisors, Fairfax County Government consistently achieves high praise for fiscal stability, quality service and technological sophistication. The total fiscal year 2016 General Fund budget was $3.8 billion. Fairfax County continues to maintain an exceptional Aaa/AAA/AAA bond rating. Only eight states, 37 counties (including Fairfax), and 37 cities hold this highly coveted "Triple A" rating from the three leading rating agencies – Moody's Investor Service, Standard & Poor's, and Fitch Investor Service.

Fairfax County has been nationally recognized as a leader in government performance measurement, garnering the International City and County Management Association's Center for Performance Measurement Certificate of Excellence every year since 2009. The County has an excellent school system and is a national leader in K-12 public education. The public school system is one of the highest-rated school systems in America. Fairfax County is also a leader in higher education, where five major colleges and universities, including the main campus of George Mason University are located. Northern Virginia Community College – the largest community college in the Commonwealth of Virginia – has two campuses in Fairfax County. About the Fairfax-Falls Church Community Services Board

The Fairfax-Falls Church Community Services Board (CSB) was established in 1969 by the joint action of Fairfax County, the City of Fairfax, and the City of Falls Church. This action was taken in accordance with the State Code, which requires every jurisdiction in the Commonwealth of Virginia to establish a CSB or join with neighboring jurisdictions. The CSB serves an area of nearly 410 square miles, with a population of over 1.1 million, and is the largest of the 40 Community Services Boards in the Commonwealth. In FY 2015, the CSB served approximately 22,000 individuals. Fairfax-Falls Church CSB operates as part of Fairfax County's Health and Human Services system, which is designed to protect and promote the health and welfare of county residents through a decentralized program.

The CSB provides services to children, youth, adults, and families, through community-based programs for individuals who experience mental illness, substance use disorders and intellectual and developmental disabilities. The CSB also provides early intervention services for infants and toddlers who have developmental delays.

A 16-member administrative policy board oversees the establishment and operation of these local services. CSB Board members are volunteers appointed by county district supervisors or by the chair of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors. One member is appointed by the Fairfax County Sheriff. Board members may serve up to three terms consecutively, and each term lasts three years.

The Fairfax-Falls Church Community Services Board is an integral part of a networked human services system that includes a central administrative agency. The agency is licensed by the Virginia Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services and is the largest local government behavioral health organization in Virginia. Total annual agency funding exceeds $160 million, with additional funding obtained through reimbursed state/federal sources, third party insurance, and consumer fees for service.

Mission Statement

To provide and coordinate a community-based support system of for individuals and families of Fairfax County and the cities of Fairfax and Falls Church who are affected by developmental delay, intellectual disability, serious emotional disturbance (youth), mental illness and/or substance use disorders.

Values

- Respect for the people we serve
Individual dignity and human rights protection are at the center of the CSB service philosophy. Each individual is involved in developing service plans which address his/her needs and preferences. Feedback from service recipients is encouraged to assess program strengths and areas for improvement.
- Quality in the services we provide
The CSB offers a comprehensive menu of preventative and responsive services that meet the needs of individuals who live in the Fairfax County community. Services are provided by qualified professionals using methods proven to achieve positive, measurable outcomes.
- Accountability in all we do
The CSB recognizes its responsibility to the Fairfax County community by striving to provide services to people with limited resources or complex needs in an effective and efficient manner. Policies and procedures are communicated and accessible to all individuals and organizations with whom we work and process improvement is anchored in continuous data review.

Service Areas

The CSB provides services which assist, improve, and maximize the potential of individuals affected by these conditions and strengthen their capacity for living self-determined, productive, and valued lives within our community. The agency mission is pursued through a continuum of services within two functional service divisions: treatment and community living.

Treatment: Services include entry and screening, crisis stabilization, detoxification as well as services to people who are incarcerated or court-involved. Also included in our treatment services are emergency services, outpatient, and day treatment as well as intensive treatment in residential settings and in the community.

Community Living: Services include daytime supported employment, group homes, support coordination, wellness and health promotion, and outreach.

Although many services are offered directly in the community, the Fairfax-Falls Church CSB manages and operates many residential and treatment facilities throughout the county. Of special note is the 2015 opening of our 120,000 square foot behavioral health center. With other county Human Service agency partners, the Merrifield Center offers a full array of primary and behavioral health services in a collocated and integrated service facility.
