Welcome to the Fairfax County Trauma-Informed Community Network! This guide was developed in spring 2018 to ensure that all new network members (we are always growing!) have same basic network history and context. We look forward to working with you!

Trauma Defined:

3 E’s: Event, Experience, Effects

Trauma refers to experiences that cause intense physical and psychological stress reactions. It can refer to a single event, multiple events, or a set of circumstances that is experienced by an individual as physically and emotionally harmful or threatening and that has lasting adverse effects on the individual’s physical, social, emotional, or spiritual well-being.

What does it mean to be trauma-informed?

4 R’s: Realize, Recognize, Respond, And Resist Re-traumatizing

A program, organization, or system that is trauma-informed:

Realizes the widespread impact of trauma and understands potential paths for recovery;

Recognizes the signs and symptoms of trauma in clients, families, staff, and others involved with the system;

Responds by fully integrating knowledge about trauma into policies, procedures, and practices; and

Seeks to actively resist re-traumatization

A trauma-informed approach can be implemented in any type of service setting or organization.

What is a Trauma-Informed Community Network?

Who: Professionals & community members interested in getting involved in a multi-disciplinary, multi-agency effort to implement and support Trauma-Informed Care initiatives across the Health, Housing, Human Services and Education Systems:

- County Government Staff
- School System Staff
- Professionals from Higher Education
- Non-Profit Partners
- Private Service Providers
- Community Members

Trauma Awareness and implementation of the principles of Trauma-Informed Care do not belong to any one agency or discipline. Networks across the Commonwealth of Virginia are facilitating:

- Opportunities for cross agency workforce development
- The adoption of core competencies for the child/youth serving workforce
- A comprehensive Systems of Care approach/response to trauma
- The development of a shared language across Human Services Agencies and their partners as it relates to trauma, its impact, and creating a culture of trauma-informed care

Network goals include:

- Creating a mechanism for information sharing, collaboration, and the sharing of resources
- Telling the story of Trauma-Informed efforts across our community, increasing awareness, and identifying areas that the group can collectively build upon
- Increasing the capacity of county government, FCPS, and their partners to implement the principles of Trauma-Informed Care and to build resiliency in the individuals, families and communities that they serve

You can learn a bit more about other networks across the Commonwealth by visiting the Voices for Virginia’s Children website here: https://vakids.org/trauma-informed-va

History of the Fairfax TICN

In 2013 the Partnership for a Healthier Fairfax (PFHF) - a coalition of community members and organizations that are working together to strengthen the public health system and improve community health, conducted a Community Health Needs Assessment and published a Community Health Improvement Plan (CHIP). The CHIP included goals and strategies related to promoting wellness and destigmatizing mental health. One of the teams that was formed to work on the goals of the CHIP was the Promoting Mental Health team. That group meets regularly to share resources related to mental health promotion across the county. A sub-group of that team (originally called the “trauma workgroup”) came together in late 2014 with the task of developing a basic trauma awareness training for non-clinicians working with children and youth. That training was developed by the multi-disciplinary workgroup, who then moved on to explore the creation of a larger interagency team to help promote the training and other trauma related initiatives across the county.

Around that same time in the greater Richmond area (City of Richmond, Henrico County, Chesterfield County) there was a growing network of professionals interested in trauma-informed care that was meeting regularly, and calling themselves a “Trauma-Informed Community Network.” Members of the Fairfax workgroup consulted with the folks from Richmond, and became the first jurisdiction to borrow the model and structure.

The Fairfax TICN held its first meeting in May 2015, and is currently one of eleven TICN’s in development across the Commonwealth of Virginia. The TICN membership roster consists of over 200 people, who represent over 40 different organizations. Some of the agencies represented include:

Department of Neighborhood & Community Services
Department of Family Services
Fairfax-Falls Church Community Services Board
Domestic and Sexual Violence Services
Healthy Minds Fairfax
Juvenile & Domestic Relations District Court
Health Department
Department of Housing & Community Development
Fairfax County Public Schools
George Mason University School of Social Work
Fairfax County Council PTA
The Gil Institute for Trauma & Recovery
Dominion Hospital
Neighborhood Health
Northern Virginia Legal Services
Northern Virginia Family Service
Autumnleaf Group
Court Appointed Special Advocates
Cornerstones
Inova
FACETS
Formed Families Forward
Tahirih Justice Center
Shelter House
Virginia Family Preservation Services
SCAN of Northern Virginia
Voices for Virginia’s Children
SafeSpot Children’s Advocacy Center
Domestic Violence Action Center
Family Pass Fairfax

The Fairfax TICN meets on the first Tuesday of every other month (February, April, June, August, October, and December) from 10:00-12:00 at the Fairfax County Government Center. All meetings are open for anyone to attend, though we do send out an Outlook Calendar invitation via our LISTSERV so we know generally how many people to expect at each meeting. There is a monthly e-mail message that goes out to the LISTSERV, along with occasional e-mail messages to highlight time-sensitive training or advocacy opportunities.

Much of the work is done outside of network meetings in time-limited, as-needed sub-committees, and over e-mail/phone, as well as in existing related meetings across the county. The network has many active members who may not attend network meetings, but participate in a variety of other ways, and benefit from the ongoing communication facilitated by the TICN. There are currently 3 active subgroups of the TICN; the Integrated Health Collaborative, the Coalition for Trauma-Informed Housing & Homeless Services and the ACE Interface Presenter Cohort.

How is the Trauma-Informed Community Network funded?

Partners in Prevention Fund

Fairfax County Government’s health and human services agencies established the Partners in Prevention Fund (PIPF) in 2006 as a collaborative prevention initiative. The PIPF is managed by the Department of Neighborhood and Community Services (NCS) Prevention Unit, under the guidance of the deputy county executive and an advisory team comprised of representatives from the various health and human services agencies. PIPF funds are established each year through the County’s budget Carryover process, when a portion of each health and human services agency’s unspent year-end funds are allocated to the PIPF by the Board of Supervisors.

The County has undertaken a multi-disciplinary effort to improve the lives of children, youth, and their families through a comprehensive system of prevention – a collaborative and integrated approach to achieve common goals. Research has shown that a prevention-oriented approach can have a positive impact on the quality of life of citizens by reducing criminal activity, drug/alcohol abuse, teen pregnancy, childhood obesity, school dropout rates, bullying, suicides, and other poor outcomes.

The following have been identified as shared outcomes for children and youth in Fairfax County. We aim to achieve these outcomes for all children and youth in Fairfax County. We also aim to ensure that disparities – whether based on race, ethnicity, socio-economic status, geography, disability, or any other circumstance – are identified and eliminated.

- Children get a healthy start in life.
- Children enter kindergarten ready to succeed.
- Children and youth succeed academically.
- Children and youth are healthy.
  - Children and youth are physically healthy.
  - Children and youth are socially, emotionally, and behaviorally healthy and resilient.
- Children and youth are safe and free from violence and injury.
- Youth earn a post-secondary degree or career credential.
- Youth enter the workforce ready to succeed.
- Youth contribute to the betterment of the community.

Thus, the PIPF was designed to leverage existing county and community resources in order to help achieve these outcomes. The PIPF funds a variety of initiatives within Fairfax County government, including pilot programs, staff trainings, and community-wide professional networks like the TICN.

What drives the work?

- Individual agency and private/non-profit organization strategic plans
- Virginia State-Wide TICN Network Collaboration
- Healthy Minds Fairfax Blueprint: Fairfax-Falls Church Children's Behavioral Health System of Care Blueprint for 2016-2019

Goal 11: Trauma-Informed Care Community

- Build clinical capacity for the provision of trauma-specific, evidence-based interventions in our public and private provider communities
- Continue to build capacity for non-clinical staff to implement trauma-informed practices in their settings
- Increase public awareness of the prevalence and impact of trauma
- Develop shared screening and referral processes for individuals impacted by trauma
- Integrate the concepts of trauma-informed care into organizational culture

- ONE Fairfax- the county's racial and social equity policy. Building a trauma-informed county requires an intentional focus on the historical and systemic traumas experienced by members of our community. To move trauma awareness and resilience forward in our community, we must also consider equity. https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/topics/one-fairfax

What resources does the TICN offer?

Free Training:

1. Basic Trauma Awareness (Trauma 101)
   90 minute training provided upon request to groups of 8 or more at the location of their choosing. There are currently 2 webinar versions of this training available on the TICN website. One for the non-clinical child/youth serving workforce, and one for the housing assistance workforce.

2. The Trauma-Informed Supervisor
   Full-day training offered to groups of 35 or more upon request at the location of their choosing.

3. Secondary Traumatic Stress & Self Care Basics Workshop
   2 hour training provided upon request to groups of 8 or more at the location of their choosing.

4. The Cost of Caring
   Full-day training offered to groups of 25 or more upon request at the location of their choosing.

5. Building Resilient Communities & Understanding Adverse Childhood Experiences
   The ACE Interface curriculum, offered with support from the Virginia Department of Behavioral Health & Developmental Services, covers neurobiology, epigenetics, ACEs and resilience in a flexible format that offers a variety of options in terms of presentation length and style. Minimum audience size is based on the desired length of the presentation.

Printed Materials:

ACE’s Infographics, Posters, Fact Sheets & other educational and awareness building resources.

A Guide to Educating Children, Youth & Families about Trauma and Resilience

Requests for materials can be made on the TICN website, where many of the materials can also be downloaded for printing: http://bit.ly/fairfaxTICN
Trauma-Informed Spaces Facility Review Checklist:

The checklist can be downloaded from the TICN website and used across service delivery sites. The TICN can provide technical assistance, to include the establishment of a cross-disciplinary team to complete the checklist on-site, and to discuss recommendations that come out of the process.

Film Screenings:

The TICN has a license to screen the documentaries Resilience: The Biology of Stress & the Science of Hope and Broken Places. Requests to use the DVDs or to obtain streaming instructions (for county government employees - Resilience only) can be made on the TICN website. The TICN can also assist with facilitating discussion following the film, and with pulling together expert panels to enhance post-screening reflection and discussion.

Technical Assistance:

TICN members come from a variety of agencies and organizations, and are involved in system level work across the county. As agencies look to incorporate trauma-informed practices, policies and procedures into their strategic plans, etc. the TICN is available for consultation and collaboration.

What has the TICN done in Fairfax so far?

Trauma Resolution

In November 2017, Fairfax became the first county in Virginia to recognize the importance of trauma awareness in service delivery in health, human services and education. Our Board of Supervisors passed a resolution declaring Fairfax a “Trauma-Informed County.”
WHEREAS, health and social science research reveals that experiences in the first few years of life can impact the biology of the human brain and body, influencing the person’s physical and mental health over his or her lifetime; and

WHEREAS, chronic stress in early childhood caused by conditions such as extreme poverty; or “trauma” such as abuse, neglect, parental mental illness or substance abuse, and violence can be toxic to a child’s developing brain; and

WHEREAS, the Adverse Childhood Experience Study and local studies have found a strong correlation between the number of adverse childhood experiences and a person’s risk for disease and negative health behaviors. For example, a person with four or more adverse childhood experiences was 2.2 times more likely to have heart disease, 84% of Fairfax County Juvenile Probation clients in 2015 reported having experienced at least one traumatic event, and Fairfax County youth who have experienced intimate partner violence were up to 4 times as likely to have attempted suicide as those who hadn’t; and

WHEREAS, supportive, stable relationships between children and their families, caregivers, and other important people in their lives can help buffer them from the effects of toxic stress and trauma; and

WHEREAS, early intervention and prevention of toxic stress and trauma through educational, juvenile justice, criminal justice, health and mental health, and other youth-serving systems can support health and well-being; and

WHEREAS, the Fairfax County Trauma-Informed Community Network is helping prioritize these approaches and is encouraging the adoption of trauma-informed practices, as it is more effective and less costly to positively influence the architecture of a developing brain than to address poor learning, health, and behaviors later in life; and

WHEREAS, through the Children’s Behavioral Health System of Care Blueprint, the county’s health and human services system and its partners have committed to enhancing the community’s ability to effectively identify and respond to children and families who have been exposed to trauma by implementing trauma-informed practices; therefore be it

Resolved, that Fairfax County will continue to work to take into account the principles of early childhood brain development and will, whenever possible, consider the concepts of toxic stress, early adversity, and buffering relationships, and note the role of early intervention and prevention as strategies to achieve a lasting foundation for county residents who can benefit from the adoption of trauma-informed practices and service delivery models.

What can you do as a member?

Attend network meetings to learn about trauma-informed initiatives across the county

Attend network meetings to share what is going on in your agency or organization related to trauma-informed care implementation

Attend network meetings to meet like-minded professionals and neighbors, and to identify resources to bring back to your agency or community

Develop a strategy to communicate within your own agency or organization about trauma-informed initiatives in the county

Bring printed materials to your agency, neighborhood (community centers, etc.), conferences and other settings where it makes sense to spread the word about trauma & resilience

Attend TICN trainings, and promote them to your colleagues

Help set-up trainings and Resilience or Broken Places screenings for audiences within your sphere of influence

Engage with other network members, and learn about upcoming events by joining the Fairfax TICN Community Page on ACEs Connection: https://www.acesconnection.com/g/fairfax-county-va-trauma-informed-community-network

Stay up to date on trainings, events and other information by joining the LISTSERV on the TICN website: http://biy.ly/fairfaxTICN

Serve on teams to help network members review their own spaces, and bring in a TICN team to review your space using the Facility Review Checklist Tool

As your role allows, advocate for trauma-informed policies at the agency, county, state and federal government levels (you will learn what those opportunities might be from attending network meetings and reading TICN communications)

Advocate for trauma-informed policies, practices and procedures within your own personal and professional spaces

Become a TICN trainer and facilitate Basic Trauma Awareness training, Resilience discussions and more!
