

New Golf Practice Facility on Course at Pinecrest

Keep your golf game at peak-season performance, year-round, with the newly renovated indoor practice facility at Pinecrest Golf Course. Renovations are scheduled to begin in February, and once they are complete, you'll have access to state-of-the-art amenities, including expanded hitting bays, an instructional bay with electronic swing analysis and a TrackMan indoor golf simulator that gives you the option to practice and play realistic golf anytime, regardless of the weather.

"This is the first major upgrade at Pinecrest since it opened in 1986," said Park Authority Golf Enterprises Manager Todd

Johnson. "The finished project will meet modern standards for indoor practice facilities and give Fairfax County residents expanded opportunities to learn and practice golf."

The updated facility will also include improved lighting and more natural light via skylights and windows. The project is being funded through a variety of sources, including the 2008 park bond, grants and private donations.

Architectural renderings of the new indoor practice facility at Pinecrest.

SALE

Save on Golf Rounds!

Mark your calendar for March 26 to take advantage of this year's frequent player pass sale at Fairfax County Park Authority golf courses. Save up to 25% on multi-round passes through May 6. The more you play, the less you pay per round! Passes can be purchased at all Park Authority golf courses. For course locations, turn to the Golf section.