

The wind a blowing

By: Katelyn Hubbard

Grade 6

The wind a blowing shaking leaves from the trees to the ground
The wind a blowing commanding grass to tickle my toes
The wind a blowing transporting seeds eager to grow
The wind a blowing helping the black raven fly as it crows.

Here's the earth working in harmony
While we're still striving for equality
Here's the earth working perfect circles
While we're still fighting little squabbles .

Now as I pear down from where I stand
I see litter on top of land
Now as I pear up from where I lay
I hear pollution with a mean message to say.

Now I see I live in a world with poverty
Now I see I live in a world with cruelty,
But...
I also see a world with family
I also see a world where people think selflessly.

So let us fix the wrongs and make them right
So the earth will once again be a wondrous sight,
Fairfax County has done their part by placing parks around the city
So let us do our part to protect the parks and keep them pretty.

Hand in Hand and
One by One
That'll be when we overcome

To fix the messes we've created
So we'll get to live in a world that is finally elated.
