Jingo is a seven-piece, Latin-Rock band consisting of musicians from around the world creating the rhythmically sensual Afro-Latin fusion with the blues-rock music of Santana. The seven topflight musicians of Jingo capture all the excitement and energy of this guitar legend and his band. Performing in numerous clubs, ballrooms and festivals of the tri-state area, Jingo draws upon and creates the Latin, rock and jazz influences that separated Santana from the typical rock band. Jingo reproduces the excitement of Santana live, captivating the audience and leaving them wanting more. The unique sound features Santana’s melodic, blues-based guitar lines set against Latin and African rhythms featuring percussion instruments such as timbales and congas not generally heard in rock music. The United States Navy Band Sea Chanters (Patriotic Fare/Broadway/Contemporary Music)

The Navy Band Sea Chanters are the United States Navy's official chorus. The ensemble performs a variety of music including traditional choral music, sea chanteys, patriotic fare, opera, Broadway and contemporary music. The Sea Chanters regularly perform for the public in the Washington, D.C., area and throughout the United States while on national tours. At home in Washington, they perform for the president, vice president and numerous congressional, military and foreign dignitaries. In 1956, Lt. Harold Fultz, then the band's assistant leader, organized a vocal group from the Navy School of Music to sing chanteys and patriotic songs for the State of the Nation dinner. Recognizing the ensemble's immediate success, Adm. Arleigh Burke, then Chief of Naval Operations, transferred the group to the Navy Band, named them the Sea Chanters and tasked this all-male chorus with perpetuating the songs of the sea. In 1980, the group added women to its ranks and expanded its repertoire to include everything from Brahms to Broadway. The Sea Chanters are frequently found at the center of our most important national events, including inauguration day performances and state funerals. They have played a vital role in comforting the nation in times of mourning, including appearances at memorials for the astronauts of the space shuttle Columbia and the presidential wreath laying ceremony at the United Airlines flight 93 crash site in Shanksville, Pennsylvania. Their performance of "Amazing Grace" for the National Day of Prayer and Remembrance at the National Cathedral in Washington after the events of 9/11 inspired all in attendance as well as a national television audience. In 2004, the chorus participated in President Reagan's funeral at the National Cathedral, and in 2007 performed in the U.S. Capitol's rotunda as President Ford was lying in state. The chorus was instrumental in the dedication ceremonies of the World War II memorials in Bedford, Virginia, and in Washington. In 1994, they provided music at the funeral of President Nixon in Yorba Linda, California,

Randy Thompson Band (Americana Country/Roots Rock)

Now six albums into an eclectic and powerful career that has included four top 40 Americana releases, singer/songwriter Randy Thompson's music lovingly embraces the past even as it pulls it kicking, picking, singing, rocking — its way into the 21st century. Since the release of his album "Further On" in 2008, he has also toured extensively in Europe, performing as well as headlining festivals in Switzerland, Italy, Austria, Germany, France, Norway and the United Kingdom. He has had a total of 12 singles reach the top 10 on the international Hotdisc chart and three Top 20 appearances on the "Euro Americana" album chart. His 2012 release "Collected" was on many "Top 10 album of the year" lists including "Outlaw Magazine" and "Country Music People." Renowned Texas music critic Dave Pilot named "Collected" as one of his "Top 10 All Time Albums." Randy Thompson Band will be on the road in 2022 both in the U.S. and in Europe. A new album release (the first since 2017) is scheduled for 2022 release. Forged on the road and carved from hard-lived experience. This collection of self-penned musical gems finds the artist in confident, reflective, peak career form. Call it country, call it roots music, call it Americana, in the end it's the sound of Randy Thompson, raw and real. It's the sound of an artist who knows where he comes from and where he stands. It's the sound of the Virginia hills, of war and peace and love and fear. It is the simple sound of the truth.

The Nighthawks (Blues)

On this landmark anniversary, founder, lead singer and harpmaster Mark Wenner, is still at the helm, while drummer Mark Stutso, guitarist Dan Hovey and bassist Paul Pisciotta all share vocals and songwriting, making this lineup on the strongest ever. Decades of gigs and countless rabid fans have earned them the name "The Best Bar Band In The World." More than a bar band or blues band, as they're frequently labeled, this is a band that played with Carl Perkins in addition to Muddy Waters. In March 2020, with a brand-new recording to promote, The Nighthawks did something previously unthinkable: They stopped in the middle of a Florida tour and drove home. Like so many other people, the band members found themselves out of work as the coronavirus swept the country. Itching to play, The Nighthawks found a couple of spaces large enough to stay apart while woodshedding new material. Previously, the process had been a streamlined one. The band would rough out a dozen new tunes in an afternoon and perform them every night for a year or two before recording. But now there was time, tons of it. Weeks turned into months. Produced by The Nighthawks and longtime compadre, David Earl, they took advantage of the pandemic slowdown to hunker down in Earl's Severn Sound Studios in Annapolis, Maryland and crank out fourteen new tracks in the classic Nighthawks style. Dan Hovey wrote a very relevant rocker, "You Seem Distant." Mark Stutso followed with a fully blast, "Coming and Going." Florida friend, Colin Kenny, a.k.a. Raiford Starke, wrote the soulful, "West Memphis," and the band stylistically took it to Memphis. Stutso came up with, "Gas Station Chicken," and everyone contributed to bringing in the funk.

Scythian (Irish Rock)

Washington D.C.-based Scythian (sith-ee-yin) began over 15 years ago as a bunch of college buddies playing Celtic music in the streets and has grown to be a headliner on the U.S. Celtic Festival Circuit as well as a name in the Bluegrass/Americana Festival Circuit. They found that their brand of high-energy folk music found a resonance that led The Washington Post to state: "Scythian's enthusiasm is contagious, and shows seem to end with everyone dancing, jumping around or hoisting glasses." For over 15 years they have found success as an independent band and have played over 1,300 shows all over the United States, Europe, Canada and as far away as Australia.

were busking on the streets of cities throughout eastern and western Europe. CBS Records contracted with Jens and Uwe when Jens was just seventeen years old, and shortly thereafter, the Krugers hosted a radio show on SRG SSR, the Swiss Public broadcast group. Several years later, the brothers teamed up with bass player Joel Landsberg, a native of New York City who also had a very extensive musical upbringing in classical and jazz music (studying with jazz great Milt Hinton), thus forming a trio that has been playing professionally together since 1995. Together, they established the incomparable sound that The Kruger Brothers are known for today. The trio moved to the United States in 2002 and is based in Wilkesboro, N.C. Since their formal introduction to American audiences in 1997, The Kruger Brothers' remarkable discipline, creativity and their ability to infuse classical music into folk music has resulted in a unique sound that has made them a fixture within the world of acoustic music. The honesty of their writing has since become a hallmark of the trio's work. In their ever-expanding body of work — Jens Kruger (banjo and vocals), Uwe Kruger (guitar and lead vocals), and Joel Landsberg, (bass and vocals) — The Kruger Brothers personify the spirit of exploration and innovation that forms the core of the American musical tradition. Their original music is crafted around their discerning taste, and the result is unpretentious, cultivated and delightfully fresh.

The Barefoot Movement (Bluegrass)

Since 2011, progressive acoustic band The Barefoot Movement has been recording and touring internationally, winning the 2014 IBMA momentum award, and releasing three studio albums as well as a live album, a holiday album, two EPs and a covers collection. They've been a tight knit group of four, with a loyal fan base in the bluegrass world. But when the pandemic brought their momentum to a halt, the four-piece ensemble began to fragment with band-mates moving in different directions during the forced hiatus. "The Barefoot Movement delivers powerful, heart-rending, butt-kickin' inoculation against lifelessness in any of its forms. I would travel a thousand miles to hear them again and I urge music lovers of all stripes to join me." – Chuck Plotkin, producer (Bruce Springsteen, Bob Dylan)

The Pietasters (Ska)

In 1990, a bunch of friends started a band with no pretensions: the idea was to make music for house parties, not to make a career out of music. These guys and a girl grew up in and around Washington, D.C. The scene was small and all the punks, skins and mods intermixed in those days. You were as likely to see a mod at a Scream show as you were to see a punk at a Toasters show. This varied influence is what informed the covers that the Pietasters played and the originals they wrote trying to emulate their favorite bands.

Mac Leaphart (Americana/Country Rock & Roll)

Mac Leaphart struck gold with 2021's Music City Joke, a record that found the award-winning songwriter cracking the Top 40 on the Americana charts, hitting the road with a full band, and earning a spot on nearly a dozen best-of-the-year lists. He wrote the album in Nashville, where hundreds of solo gigs and writers' rounds had already sharpened his wry version of American roots music. Once Music City Joke found a national audience though, Leaphart began spending more time outside of town, packing venues from Amarillo to St. Louis. Two years after Music City Joke's release, Leaphart headed back into the studio with Brad Jones. Joined by Fats Kaplin, Matt Menefee and other musicians, they tracked songs like "Rock & Roll Hey" (a loose, lean country-rocker, caught halfway between "Exile on Main St." and a front-porch pickin' party), "Shake a Leg" (whose tale of whirlwind romance is driven forward by Kaplin's fiddle, Carey Kotsionis' harmonies, and Leaphart's rasped vocals), and "Ain't No Pistol" (a barn-burning bar-band anthem featuring guitar leads from Kenny Vaughan). Each song was tracked within an hour of Leaphart presenting it to the band, a move that emphasized first instincts and fiery, collaborative musicianship.

The Seldom Scene (Bluegrass)

Fifty-three years into a legendary career, much has changed about The Seldom Scene, starting with the venerable progressive bluegrass quintet's various lineup iterations over time. But even as band members have stepped in and out of various roles, what's most important is what hasn't changed: an undeniable knack for blending both old and new music and traditions without sacrificing what makes either potent and durable. Their current iteration is a true blue lineup: guitarist mandolin player Lou Reid, bassist Ronnie Simpkins, banjoist and fiddler Ron Stewart, dobro player Fred Travers, and guitarist Clay Hess.

Since they started up together in 1971, The Seldom Scene has dexterously performed original and traditional songs while presenting fiery and soulful reinterpretations of material by Merle Haggard, James Taylor, and more. The concept of bluegrass unshackling itself from a conservative, straight-ahead mindset seems like a given now, when some of its biggest stars fill stadiums and cross over with mainstream audiences, but the continued presence of The Seldom Scene acts as a reminder that it wasn't always so. Even if their playing style feels more at home in intimate clubs, where the audience can feel their exuberance radiating from the stage, the Scene's elastic relationship to genre established an important precedent that encouraged their contemporaries and allowed bluegrass bands to expand their repertoire in ways that laid the groundwork for today's bluegrass boom.

Ocho de Bastos (Latin/Pop)

Ocho de Bastos (translation: Eight of Clubs) is one of the most popular and sought after Latin Pop Rock bands in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area. Founded by a group of enthusiastic young musicians, Ocho de Bastos' sound is an energetic fusion of tropical rhythms with Latin rock. A unique guitar sound, blended with powerful drums, Latin percussion, and catchy brass riffs complement Ocho de Bastos' unique style. Ocho de Bastos was described by National Public Radio's Felix Contreras as "...a damn good band." Ocho de Bastos decided to fuse strong percussion and Caribbean rhythms with more traditional Latin rock sounds resulting in nine songs that identify Ocho de Bastos style as what band members call "a fusion of tropical rhythms like merengue, salsa, reggae and reggaeton with a powerful electric guitar." The band has successfully performed in major festivals (more than 80,000 in attendance) and other performances (e.g., at the Washington Nationals Stadium) that support diversity and various charities. Broad audiences (including people from different ethnicities, backgrounds, and ages) enjoy and dance to the contagious rhythms of Ocho de Bastos. Our repertoire includes Top 40, pop, rock and roll, alternative, Latin pop, Caribbean fusion, reggae, ska and international genres. After years of performing in front of international crowds, Ocho de Bastos expresses new musical influences in their albums which include exotic rhythms from Spain, Africa, South America and the Caribbean. A well-balanced blend of exotic and modern bounces make Ocho de Bastos original music a truly enjoyable and fun musical production. Ocho de Bastos is available for private, corporate, charitable and public events. The band loves community festivals, as well as

The Nighthawks (Blues)

On this landmark anniversary, founder, lead singer and harpmaster Mark Wenner is still at the helm, while drummer Mark Stutso, guitarist Dan Hovey and bassist Paul Pisciotta all share vocals and songwriting, making this lineup on the strongest ever. Decades of gigs and countless rabid fans have earned them the name "The Best Bar Band In The World." More than a bar band or blues band, as they're frequently labeled, this is a band that played with Carl Perkins in addition to Muddy Waters. In March 2020, with a brand-new recording to promote, The Nighthawks did something previously unthinkable: They stopped in the middle of a Florida tour and drove home. Like so many other people, the band members found themselves out of work as the coronavirus swept the country. Itching to play, The Nighthawks found a couple of spaces large enough to stay apart while woodshedding new material. Previously, the process had been a streamlined one. The band would rough out a dozen new tunes in an afternoon and perform them every night for a year or two before recording. But now there was time, tons of it. Weeks turned into months. Produced by The Nighthawks and longtime compadre, David Earl, they took advantage of the pandemic slowdown to hunker down in Earl's Severn Sound Studios in Annapolis, Maryland and crank out fourteen new tracks in the class Nighthawks style. Dan Hovey wrote a very relevant rocker, "You Seem Distant." Mark Stutso followed with a fully blast, "Coming and Going." Florida friend, Colin Kenny, a.k.a. Raiford Starke, wrote the soulful, "West Memphis," and the band stylistically took it to

The Junk Yard Band is a go-go band, founded in the early 1980s by children playing on improvised instruments. The band was formed in 1980 by children, ranging in age from 8 to 13, living in the Barry Farm government housing project in Washington, D.C. With go-go music gaining in popularity and the band gaining local notoriety, the band began booking performances at schools, recreation centers, fundraisers and government agencies. They have toured extensively playing in well know venues such as Capital Center, Richmond Coliseum, John F. Kennedy Center and the Apollo Theater in New York City with LL Cool J. The band had eventually made enough money to purchase real equipment and made the change. They began performing in night clubs as they became old enough to enter and started performing with folks such as Beastie Boys, Salt-N-Pepa, Tupac, Roots, Slayer, Ice Cube and Yo-Yo.
