

A Promise to My Green Planet

Panting as I hike to the peak of the trail
Breathtaking views surround me
Eddies of white in the Lake Fairfax
And dazzling flowers and lush trees
Hoping to cherish the beauty of the nature
I pledge these to my park

Picking up plastic and glass bottles, waiting to be reborn
Hanging birdfeeders, lingering for a chatty company
Planting evergreens, adding shade and fresh air
Exchanging our gratitude for each other
Appreciating nature for its fragile beauty
Loving each other's presence in harmony
Giving my word to nurse the park like a sapling

These are my humble promise
To my green planet
