

McLean Community Business Center (CBC) Planning Study - Upcoming Open Houses

Creating a vision for downtown McLean

This spring the county began work on a planning study for the McLean Community Business Center (CBC), downtown McLean, to update the Comprehensive Plan. The county hired a consultant, Streetsense, to help create a vision plan with the community that will be used by a task force, the community, and the county to develop Comprehensive Plan recommendations.

Why should you participate?

Take a moment to think about downtown McLean and how it fits into your daily life. This is another opportunity to let us know what's important to you about the built environment in downtown McLean and how you see it developing in the future.

How can you continue to participate?

In June the community participated in three workshops. During these three workshops, participants told us what they wanted to see for the future of the CBC. Now it is time for us to show the community what we heard at these workshops. Since the workshops, Streetsense has been working on a draft vision plan to present to the community at two open houses this fall. At the open houses, the community will have the opportunity to view the drafts and provide feedback that will be incorporated into the final vision plan.

What happens next?

Later this fall, Streetsense will complete the final vision plan after compiling and analyzing community input received at the open houses. The task force, and the community will then work with county staff to translate this vision into recommendations for changes to the Comprehensive Plan. The task force's monthly meetings are open to the public and information regarding the meetings can be found on the meetings page for the study.
