Notes/Narratives

I spoke with [REDACTED] on 5-18-15, while we were waiting for [REDACTED] to speak with her son, [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] wanted to report that [REDACTED] went onto her Amazon account (on the home computer) and bought about $600 worth of items without her permission. [REDACTED] bought shoes ($366), rolling papers, hookah pen, sweatshirt, paper filter tips, cuban style chain, and mob skateboard grip tape. He also bought a cell phone unlocking service for $79.95.

[REDACTED] also found a cell phone in his bedroom that does not belong to him. The phone is an iPhone 5s, 16GB, gray, T-Mobile service provider, [REDACTED]. I ran the serial number and it does not come back stolen. The phone was set up as if it was a brand new phone that had been wiped clean. I took the phone to a T-Mobile store to have them return the phone to the owner.

[REDACTED] wants to press charges for credit card forgery, theft, and fraud. I have an appointment with Juvenile Intake on May 28th at 1000 hours to obtain felony petitions.

Nothing further at this time.

Supplement Notes

On Friday, 05/29/2015, at 1950 hrs I responded to [REDACTED] to serve detention orders on [REDACTED]. Upon my arrival to the area I identified [REDACTED] riding his bicycle on the sidewalk. I approached him and he consented to talking with me; I asked him his name and he identified himself as [REDACTED]. I then took custody of [REDACTED] and informed him that he had detention orders for credit card fraud, disorderly conduct, credit card theft, and credit card forgery.

I spoke with [REDACTED], who provided me with a t-shirt for [REDACTED] as he had no shirt on when I took custody of him. I informed her that I had taken custody of him and would be transporting him to the JDC.

I then transported [REDACTED] to the juvenile intake office, where he was fingerprinted, photographed, and served his detention orders. I then transported [REDACTED] to the JDC, where I released him to the custody of the detention officers.

No further action taken by this officer.
